

ESHU

Eshu

The Eshu 250 (3+ sofa) was designed 2003 by Roger Sveian. Since then Eshu has developed to include a 2,5+ version as well as an 1+ easychair and a large stool.

Eshu's combination of firm comfort and distinctive, yet subtle looks, makes it add to both private and public spaces. It's generous dimensions and shape invokes a social lifestyle / meeting point.

ESHU FACTS

About Eshu

Eshu is represented in the collections of the National Museum of Decorative Arts in Trondheim. It's been awarded "Sofa of the year" by Elle Interior Magazine, and it's been part of several exhibitions, both national and internationally. Eshu is also part of "Inside Norway".

Basic materials

Eshu's characteristic leg-structure is stainless steel throughout, (combination of tubing and turned solid details), and has a brushed finish. Seat and back in cold foam with fiber, (on wooden frame). The seat has a dense nozag spring system and 3 layer laminated foam. (Eshu 90, (stool), does not have nozag springs).

Textiles

Mokasser purchases fabrics from a wide range of renowned suppliers. Customer supplied fabrics are also possible - this however only applies if the fabric originates from a supplier which Mokasser do not purchase from. Make sure to have your local dealer clarify this, and whether the quality can be characterised as suitable.

Leather

Eshu is available in both semi-aniline and aniline leather. Mokasser uses leather from world-leading supplier Elmo Leather, and offers the following qualities for Eshu: Elmosoft (semi-aniline) and Elmo Rustical (aniline). Any colours within these ranges are available.

MOKASSER INFORMATION

Background

Mokasser was established 2006. The company continues Norwegian furnituremaking traditions, and quality standards, combined with the best of tomorrows form. At Mokasser we seek to inspire the design- and quality conscious user both in private and public spaces.

Location

Mokasser's production is located in an inspiring scenery, at the bottom end of Sykkylvsfjord, in Norway. Along this fjord furniture manufacturing has been the community's most important industry for nearly 70 years.

Collection

As of June 2006 Mokasser took over all manufacturing-, marketing- and distribution-rights related to the award winning products / product series: Whole in One™ and Eshu. These products form the basis of Mokasser's collection at the time of commencement. The collection is being extended and developed, in collaboration with renowned designers, with focus on a high level of quality and formal integrity as key factors of recognition. Most Mokasser products are suitable / available both for retail and contract.
